DEDICATION

No attempt to review the recent progress of Appalachian would be complete without an effort to pay tribute to our most competent business manager, Mr. Barnard Dougherty.

Rather than becoming the grim personality that a man who listens to the financial troubles of hundreds of others is apt to be, he has retained a cheerful disposition and a personal interest in all the students with whom he has come in contact. He always seems willing to listen to the troubles of any student, and to help him to the best of his ability, be he the lowliest freshman or the highest senior.

Besides being imbued with the characteristics which make for a congenial personality, our business manager is at all times open-minded toward any project or activity which will open the way for the advancement and improvement of Appalachian.

It therefore gives us a great deal of pleasure to dedicate, to you, Mr. Barnard, THE 1939 RHODODENDRON, with the hope that this will in some way help compensate for the invaluable services which you are rendering.

FOREWORD

FEW PEOPLE fully appreciate the beauties of nature, especially those which are common experiences, made such by everyday associations. We, at Appalachian, are bountifully blessed with scenes, admired and praised by man since time immemorial, but we are prone to neglect recognizing them.

For our theme we have selected scenes and activities found in our own western North Carolina depicting the manner in which nature in all her wonderful and varied forms derives her strength and beauty from the fundamental elements, fire, earth, water and air.

THEME EXPLANATION

IN ORDER to present the fundamental elements of nature, we have chosen certain representative scenes and activities which to us most appropriately portray these thoughts.

To represent the College, we have chosen Fire, for by its aid the products of the earth can be transformed into marvelous inventions. Just as the blacksmith makes shapeless iron into useful objects, the college takes the untrained individual as the raw material and molds and shapes him or her into a valuable finished product.

The Earth, representing the Classes, is the home, hiding place, refuge, giver, and sustainer of all life. Likewise, the classes are the foundation and backbone of the college, without which it could not exist.

Water, obeying the pull and urge of gravity, rushes to the sea, overcoming all obstacles that put themselves in its way. Athletes, obeying the urge of conquest, release their potential powers against all obstacles which present themselves in athletic contests. Like water, they may be momentarily stopped in their progress, but eventually burst forth, stronger and more powerful than ever.

Air, in the form of wind, has tremendous power and can sway the most rigid structures. Student activities are the swaying force on the college campus and are the determining factor in its success or failure.

For our features we present a scene of Natural Beauty, presented to us by King Winter himself, and delivered direct to the heart of our own campus . . .

BOOK IV — ACTIVITIES

SOCIETIES

Like a hawk, soaring on rising currents of air, screams as he pounces on his prey, so the orator rising on murmurs of approval, bursts forth full-throated to carry his audience.

CLUBS

Clubs are the incubators of many abilities and skills. Each has its own objectives and makes its own contribution to the whole . . .

"Out of childhood into manhood
Now had grown my Hiawatha.
Skilled in all the crafts of hunters.
Learned in all the lore of old men
In all youthful sports and pastimes.
In all manly arts and labors . . ."

SUPERLATIVES AND SPONSORS

Just as there are superlatives in nature, there are superlatives in personality and achievement. The cloud, a superlative of nature, is the most beautiful form through which she manifests herself—it is ever changing—ever new.

"I am the daughter of earth and water
And the nursling of the sky.
I pass through the pores of oceans and shores
I change, but I cannot die."

FULL SUMMER QUARTER

We of the Rhododendron wish to express our appreciation and thanks to those people who have contributed some part in making this book possible. We wish to thank:

Mr. Bill Mitchell of the Observer Printing House for his faithful and tireless efforts in laying out and printing this book.

Mr. M. F. Dunbar of Dunbar and Daniels Studio for his excellent photography.

Prof. A. Antonakos for his splendid co-operation in all activities and for his photography.

Mr. Paul Weston of the Boone Photo Shop for his many courtesies.

Rev. Paul Townsend for his assistance in executing the theme.

The Department of Conservation of the State of Tennessee for the picture of the Norris Dam.

The North Carolina Department of Conservation and Development for the picture of the seedlings.

Dr. W. Amos Abrams for his time and unselfish efforts during the campus elections.

Mr. Gene Wike, Publicity Director, for his pictures, camera time and whole-hearted co-operation.
